

Change it up!

Walt Disney was expected to make war training videos for World War II. He could have been upset but he took a hard situation and found a way to use creativity to enjoy himself and help others. Think of a hard situation you are in and then make a comic to make light of it.
